- a) Any member or attendee who creates an aspect of the game world which becomes part of the society's canon shall be expected to write a brief on that aspect within a month of its first appearance to be handed over to the plot coordinator.
- b) Plot coordinators will consult the original creators on questions of theme and mood where those become relevant for upcoming events and plot; in turn, those creators will at least begin responding to such requests within a fortnight.

10 Complaints

- a) Complaints are to be dealt with in a clear and open manner with anonymous complaints only being permissible in exceptional circumstances where there is reason to believe that making the subject of the complaint aware of the nature or origin of the complaint would possibly bring harm to the complainant.
- b) Complaints may only be anonymous with the backing of the majority of the executive committee and the choice to allow such is exclusively with the executive committee, not at the discretion of the complainant. In each case, the complainant may withdraw the complaint if they do not wish it to be put forward at any time.
- c) The grounds for complaint are to be out of character concerns.
- d) Complaints are to be related to the complainer's own circumstances.
- e) Reasonable effort must have already been made by the complainer to discuss the matter with the subject of the complaint beforehand.
- f) Each complaint will adhere to the following steps, making every effort in each stage to allow the parties to find an amicable resolution:

1 Submission and mediated resolution

If informal discussion is inconclusive or unproductive, then a mediated discussion of the complaint between the parties involved should be offered, supported by an impartial member of the committee.

2 Formal complaint review

If a complaint cannot be mediated, it will be submitted to the president in a written format. The president will then send a copy to the target of the complaint and call a meeting of the executive committee to review if the complaint has substance under the constitution and guidance available for the society. If there are no such issues, the complaint should be closed and all parties informed. There will be no discussion of potential outcomes at this stage.

A single point of contact from the executive will be agreed on by the committee to lead on each individual case that is considered to have substance. This is for avoidance of bias and to allow future appeals.

3 Subject's response

If the complaint is not closed, the complainant and target of the complaint should be made aware of the outcome of this meeting and the subject of the complaint given the opportunity to respond to any issues that the executive have accepted are valid complaints. This should be in a manner that allows the subject to respond effectively and clarify their position.

4 Committee evaluation

Following from that, the single point of contact should follow up on responses. The response should be weighted toward the guidance that this is a communal society, and we should strive to support our members.

Available actions in order of seriousness:

- Feedback to the subject to guide improvement
- Informal warning
- Informal warning with a request for public apology
- Formal written warning
- Formal warning with a request for public apology
- Second formal written warning

NOTE: Everything beyond this point must be referred from the single point of contact to the committee as a whole. It is not expected that these outcomes will be the response to a first complaint about an individual.

- Ban from serving on committee positions for a period of time
- Ban from running events for a period of time
- Censure (request for resignation of position/suspension/vote of no confidence)

Should repeated incidents/complaints occur regarding same subject within the same year, the executive may escalate the response along the above steps. At the discretion of the executive committee, they may skip ahead to any of the listed responses if the matter is deemed to be of due seriousness.

5 Feedback

The committee should inform the complainant and subject of the complaint and answer questions/give responses as needed.

6 Appeal

That either the subject of the complaint or the complainer have the right to appeal the decision made. This shall be done by asking the whole committee to consider the complaint in full.

Once the whole committee has considered the complaint and outcome and made their decision, this decision shall be final.

Anonymous complaint

In the case of an anonymous complaint, the executive committee should review the complaint and move forward from step three withholding the name of the complainant and summarising the issues with the subject of the complaint. The subject of the complaint should then be given a chance to respond and move forward as normal from that point.

Prejudicial interests

Any person hearing the complaint must not be related to or have a significant personal relationship with either the complainant or the subject of the complaint. They also cannot be a witness to the complaint.

11 Property and Funds

- a) Any property purchased for the society should be held in the society's name or, if this is not possible, in the name of the President, who shall hold this property on behalf of the members. If this property generates any income (e.g. via sale or hire) this shall be added to the society's funds.
- b) If the society is dissolved, any funds remaining after all obligations have been settled shall be shared equally among the members at the time.
